

Ethical Approaches to Providing Competent Behavioral Health Care

For professionals in behavioral health, psychologists, counselors, drug and alcohol counselors, & social workers

This training session focuses on enhancing understanding and application of ethical principles for behavioral healthcare providers (psychologists, counselors, drug and alcohol counselors, and social workers). The training session will cover ethical principles, discuss their application, give examples of common ethical dilemmas, describe an ethical decision-making model, and discuss cultural considerations when making ethical decisions. Ethics are designed to protect the public we serve by safeguarding their interests and giving us direction when conflicting interests arise in providing care.

OBJECTIVES

1. Name and describe the ethical principles for your profession.
2. Identify potential ethical problems and apply the ethical principles.
3. Identify three common ethical dilemmas occurring in behavioral healthcare.
